NEAR-NEWS AND CHATTER FOR SATURDAY NIGHT

To the lady first correctly guessing the identity of the person of whom the following is a character sketch, and bringing a copy of this paper to The Tribune office, a cash prize of $1.00 will be given. The subject of the sketch is a prominent citizen of La Crosse. After winning one prize, a contestant will not be eligible to again compete for a period of three months.

Paul Lutz was the subject of last week's "Guess Who's Here" contest. Miss Zischke, 1220 South Fifth street being the winner.

He's tall enough to be distinctive, very straight, with a waist-line that suggests a life of moderation. His career has been run with the nice regularity of a full-jeweled movement. He's a pleasant, even-tempered, soft-spoken fellow. He discovered the value of advertising constantly reiterated, and the knowledge made him independent. His has been the paradoxical experience of making money by parting with gold. He loves long walks and the crack of his Stevens pistol in the hills means that a bullet has found its billet, for he's a crack shot. Of late, however, he's taken to the automobile, perhaps because one of his sons is getting well up in the auto world. Come to think of it, his two hobbies are closely related to the careers of his sons: advertising with that of the son who's a journalist, motoring with that of the son who's an automobile expert. He's sensitive and emotional in a mild and kindly way, and his strong manhood does not blush for a tear that will steal into the blue eyes when home ties pull strongly or a pathetic story is told, but more characteristic of him is the pleasant smile with which he greets his world each day. He's a sufficient sort of man, a genuine success—an 18-carat American Gentleman.

BARLEYCORN

You and I and Spring-time are out for a lark today, and Barleycorn is with us to cheer us on our way. Great pals, we four, and we're living, for the way is entrancing fair, and we love the breath of Spring-time that ladens the perfumed air. Barleycorn's at his best tonight, and our spirits are mounting high, and he brings us wit and laughter, and who cares how or why? He spurs our blood to tingling and drives life with the whip. Oh, a care-free pal is Barleycorn, with him there's never a slip 'twixt the cup of fun and the lip of one who loves him with merry jest, for of all the jolly good fellows John Barleycorn's the best. So here's to a lark with Barleycorn! and nobody cares at all, that those who play with him and Spring will mourn with him and Fall.

"SHOULD AULD ACQUAINTANCE BE FORGOTTEN"

An old acquaintance of La Crosse county residents was brought to mind by a recent article in the Madison State Journal by A. O. Barton on "Astronomer, Idealist and Business Man." Arnt O. Rhea, of Thorpe, elected to the legislature to represent Clark county last fall, grew to healthy young manhood on the banks of the Black River near Lytle and many stories of his full blooded activities as a young man are told by some of those who like to remember the old days when La Crosse was a "saw mill town." Arnt Rhea was a young man of athletic ability in spite of the fact that he lost an arm in early boyhood in a sawmill accident. His prowess as a wrestler still makes John Costley of this city and Tom Johnson, of Holmen, themselves of no small caliber, wag their heads in admiration. A part of the brief sketch of Mr. Rhea's climb to fame and influence written by Mr. Barton is given as follows: "Mr. Rhea is a man of many apparent inconsistencies. For instance, he is an idealist and yet a successful business man; he went to school after he was married, and he went to college first and then to the high school.

to America, and to La Crosse county, Wisconsin, where he lived for 32 years. He may be said to be a schoolman, for in addition to the years he spent in school he was for 18 years teacher and for 18 years a county superintendent. His education he acquired in Gale college, the La Crosse Business college, the River Falls normal school and the Winona normal school. He taught in the common and graded schools of La Crosse county for twelve years and was superintendent of schools for seven years.

"In 1893 Mr. Rhea moved to Thorpe, in Clark county, which has since been his home. He was principal of the high school there for five years and in 1900 was elected county superintendent, holding the office for eleven years. In addition to carrying on his educational work Mr. Rhea has found time to acquire a farm at Thorpe, to serve as vice-president of the Gilman Manufacturing company and director of the Farmers' Exchange bank of Thorpe.

"In his astronomical studies Mr. Rhea pursues what he styles 'amateur' work. More discoveries have been made by amateurs, he says, than by professional astronomers. "Mr. Rhea has an observatory of his own and a glass which, for instance, magnifies the diameter of Jupiter 300 times, making that planet larger than the full moon appears to the naked eye."

DOC SAYS:
An optimist is a man who invites you to go with him on a fishing trip in your automobile, and confidentially mentions to you the name of his favorite brand of cigars.

Not even the soothing attractiveness of beautiful Madison is sufficient to assuage the seething tempers of travelers with crow's-foot eyes who tumble out of trains from hereabout, run on schedules diabolically timed to stir men's passions, and in the chill air of 3 a. m. rattle and creak in antiquated buses to hotels where rooms are both high and rare, clerks pre-occupied and guests acclimated to the cantankerous atmosphere of aloof inhospitality. Ergo it is unpleasant even to imagine the humor of Jess Higbee when, last week, in addition to suffering from the hereinabove described tribulations, he arrived at his hotel to find the room for the reservation of which he had telegraphed given to another by an inattentive clerk. It is not recorded that Jess even attempted to smother his wrath, nor does the editor feel adequate to the task of repeating the replete and eloquent dissertation with which the attorney conveyed to the gaping and disinterested clerk his intimately personal convictions relating to the affair. Suffice it to say that, exhausted by his journey and his eloquence, Jess joined a motley crowd of gents stretched on execratable cots in a muggy hotel corridor, and vainly sought to compose himself to slumber.

In about an hour, when drowsiness was as near as he had come to the attainment of his soporific ambition, the regular guests began to dress and slink out for coffee and eggs. And one by one, between his nightmarish winks, he commented upon the "hall boys," until of the unfortunates all but Jess had clothed themselves in rage and raiment and gone forth to discontented breakfasts. Alone in the glory of his indignation, Mr. Higbee heard the occupants of rooms, one by one, file by with a galling fusillade of comment upon his lowly misfortune. "Hotel's crowded. Folks sleepin' in the corridor," said one. Jesse cursed deep down in his inards. "Big jam. Man sleepin' on a cot," said another. Jesse's mental billingsgate ruptured his vocabulary. "Business 's rushing," said the next man. "See that boob sleepin' on the cot?" Jesse bounded out of bed and let fly the vials of his wrath. "You're a liar!" he enunciated in tones of icy challenge. "I ain't sleepin'!"

And, to make it good, in the next moment his apoplectic consciousness heard a gum-chewing chambermaid say from the doorway he had just opened: "Here's another empty room."

We found in a pigeonhole in John C. Burns' desk a copy of the Galesville Republican, and Mr. Burns explained by putting his index finger on the heading of a clever article in which Publisher Gipple had told of the retirement to private life of Arnt O. Rhea. Mr. Rhea, it was stated, had turned over to his son a general

T. A. G. S. ACTIVE IN THE CURB MARKET

Visiting Nurse Securities Show Remarkable Fluctuation of Price with Brisk Demand

PRICES RANGE FROM 10 TO $10

Queer Incidents Told by the Girls Who Sell Cards to Willing Victims on the Down-town Streets

Interest in the curb market on Main street today centered about the remarkable activity in T. A. G. S., Unlimited. The fluctuations in price were curious and extreme, but a brisk demand was noted from the opening of the market. The trading was mainly by investors, and sales were made from one cent, which was low for the day, to ten dollars, which was the high mark registered by noon. It was expected that a new high mark will be set before the close of business.

Mrs. George W. Burton, promoter of T. A. G. S., Unlimited, was in high feather when seen at her headquarters in the Y. M. C. A. As proof of the remarkable activity in her security, she exhibited a big wicker hamper, the bottom of which was sparsely covered with bundles of fifty tags.

Began With 8,000
"That was full this morning," she said. "There were 8,000 tags in it when we started."

Mrs. Burton was elated at the ready response. She declared that the tags were meeting with nothing but success in disposing of visiting nurse cardboards. Contributions, she said, ranged from pennies to bills, with every one willing to contribute.

The girls who are doing the tagging began bright and early, if not sooner, this morning. It is rumored that they began so early that the first coin jingled into the pasteboard box of a girl at the Milwaukee depot. She met the first train, which comes in at 6 o'clock.

Before noon the down town streets were speckled with spots of color on the coats of men, women and children who had been waylaid by the seductive taggers. They were in squads on every corner of the business district, and it was an exceptional man who got to his office this morning without being stopped at least once by a tagger.

They invaded the industrial plants and business stopped in many places while the workers crowded round to get the tags.

Many incidents enlivened the day. One tagger came in with a tale of a little girl who stood on tip-toes to put her candy penny into the box and receive a tag. Another told of a boy with three damp cents in his grimy fist, who gladly surrendered them for a "decoration."

At another place a girl bookkeeper was perched in an office high above the store. She couldn't come down, but she fastened a paper clamp to a string, and let her money down to the tag girl, who sent up the tag on the impromptu elevator.

The tagging was not confined to the business district. All through the residence sections, squads of girls working with automobiles as supply stations made house-to-house canvasses, leaving tags and banners everywhere. Every auto and even many of the horses had the paper tag day banners floating. One horse was seen with a tag day banner on each side of his bridle.

Expect New Record
None of the taggers could make estimates as to the amount that would be added to the visiting nurse fund, but all were optimistic. They feel that the thoroughness of the campaign this year will set a new mark in receipts.

The taggers' boxes will be opened at six this evening, when the band of girls will gather in the Y. M. C. A. to check up.

store business which he had run on the lines of honesty and industry that make for success during the past thirty years.

"I prize that paper, because I prize Mr. Scarseth as one of my best friends," said Mr. Burns. "Think of it! He was my first customer. I sold him the first bill of goods in my career as a jobber; and we have done business together ever since. He's a great republican, and he never loses a chance to banter me about being a democrat. He used to come to La Crosse about once every fortnight, and when he had a kick to register he used to haul me out for selling him 'democratic fruit.' But when the goods went fast and everybody was happy, he'd thank me for sending him that fine 'republican fruit.' He retired March 4, and told me gleefully that he was going to 'retire with Bill Taft.' I certainly hope that Mr. Scarseth may enjoy his leisure, for he is a fine man, even if he is a republican."

And Mr. Burns carefully folded up the newspaper and put it back into the safety of its pigeonhole.

SENTENCED FOR BEGGING
John Ryan, a tramp, was sentenced to thirty-five days in the county jail by Judge John Brindley in county court today after being found guilty of begging.

COUNCIL DECIDES TO CLOSE VIADUCT

Will Close Rose Street Bridge Until the Crossing Is Put In

IS ORDER OF RAIL COMMISSION

Will Hear Reapportionment Proposal Only if Bridge Is Closed

After an argument which lasted the greater part of an hour the common council last night voted to close Rose street between Island and St. Andrew streets to traffic until either a new viaduct is built or some other form of crossing is ordered by the state railroad commission. Barriades will be built immediately closing the viaduct to travel.

The decision to close the bridge followed a report by Attorney J. E. Higbee on his conference with the members of the railroad commission in Madison two weeks ago. Mr. Higbee set forth the commission's reasons for ordering the bridge and ordering the present structure closed. He said that the time for appealing from the commission's ruling had expired a year and a half ago because the city had resulted in the order for a new viaduct. He said the city had petitioned for a new bridge following a serious accident on the Mill street crossing which the commission pronounced the most dangerous in the state. The commission, however, he said, is willing to hear any new proposal the city wishes to make, either as to a reapportionment of the expense of the structure or the tunnel plan of crossing.

He declared that the commission had made their proposal absolutely conditional on the immediate closing of the present bridge and that the city had no other option than to obey the order.

Mahoney Starts Something
Alderman P. W. Mahoney created a mild sensation by the assertion that in his belief the reopening of the question sought by the city is a subterfuge to cause delay. "It is folly to think that a tunnel crossing would be cheaper than the viaduct," he said, "the whole scheme looks like a play for time to me." Further action in the crossing question was referred to the committees on bridges, special street improvements and streets and alleys.

Alderman Mahoney again warmed things up a bit when Mayor Orj Sorensen presented the name of George Bradish for reappointment as city engineer. Alderman Mahoney said that he could not vote for Mr. Bradish without being a hypocrite. He asserted that his opposition was not caused by personal feelings but rather by the past attitude of the engineer toward the administration and board of public works. Engineer Bradish was re-elected with but one dissenting vote.

It required five ballots to elect James M. Murray a member of the school board to succeed A. H. Schubert resigned. The men nominated were James B. Murray, Wallace Montague, Dan McMillan and Prof. A. H. (Continued on Page Six)

Accuser of O'Hara Admits that Her Statement Was to Be Used to Silence Vice Probe

DENIES ANY IMPROPER RELATIONS

Daughter of Former Governor Davidson Enters Indignant Denial of the Story

MADISON, Wis., May 10.—Absolute, indignant denial of the testimony given on the stand in Chicago today by Mrs. Maude Robinson that she was in the Sherman hotel with a Mrs. Imbusch of Madison, was made today by Mrs. Mabel Davidson Imbusch in the home of her father, J. O. Davidson, a former governor of Wisconsin. "The charge is absolutely absurd," said Mrs. Imbusch, "I know nothing of Mr. O'Hara, save that I met him once in a Chicago theater six or seven months ago. I wouldn't know him if I met him on the street."

Former Governor Davidson was highly indignant because his daughter's name had been dragged into the case and threatened prosecution of the persons responsible.

CHICAGO, May 10.—Mrs. Maude Robinson, divorcee and pretty accuser of Lieutenant Governor Barrett O'Hara, admitted under oath today that the affidavit she made concerning O'Hara was for the purpose of stopping the Illinois senate vice committee in its probe into conditions at Springfield, Ill.

She made the admission at the first session of the senate committee appointed at the request of O'Hara himself to investigate the charges made against him. She declared that she had gone to the Sherman hotel in Chicago with the lieutenant governor and two others on the night of January 17 but that their relations had not been improper.

Never Alone
"We were not in the same room together and not alone at any time," she testified.

Her object in making the affidavit, she testified, was to "call O'Hara's bluff." She said that she received no money for signing the affidavit, but that she understood that it never would be made public, that it would be used as a "silencer."

The Robinson woman concluded her testimony just before noon. When the committee recessed until afternoon, Senator Ettelson, chairman, announced that if Lieutenant Governor O'Hara was ready to take the stand, he would be the next witness called. If O'Hara is not ready to tell his side of the story, it is probable that hotel employees will be called.

The affidavit containing the charges against O'Hara and submitted to the senate by Deputy Sheriff Sullivan of Springfield, was not made public (Continued on Page Six)

BASEBALL SEASON OPENS TOMORROW

Doubleheader of All Teams in City League Will Be Played at League Park

The lid is off tomorrow! At 2:00 tomorrow afternoon at League park the official corkscrew will be applied to the cork, and La Crosse baseball will bubble out of the bottle.

The season opens tomorrow with enthusiasm and a doubleheader, just to give an extra kick to the rocket. The four teams of the newly organized city league will meet in desperate contest for the advantage in the summer's race for the flag.

The Summits and Nelson, North La Crosse members of the league, will open the ball, with nine frames of first class gambling, followed closely by the Clothiers and the Athletes the south side half of the sketch known as "The La Crosse Semi-Professional League of Baseball Clubs."

All bickerings and disputes between the various clubs, which hung like a cloud on the league's horizon early in the spring, has been settled. All the managers and players dwell together in peace and harmony now, and the only squabbles that can possibly appear will be arguments with the umpire.

A large audience of ball-hungry fans is expected to greet the opener.

ON LAST LAP OF BIG RESERVOIR ON GRANDDAD BLUFF

Estimated that Job Will Be Practically Completed Within Two Months

NEW WATER BEFORE CHRISTMAS

Half Million Dollar Work Will Be in Operation in the Fall, Say Contractors

DIGGING DONE IN FROZEN DIRT

Day and Night Shifts Necessary in Scooping Out Side of Bluff for the Big Tank

La Crosse's new five hundred thousand dollar water system will be in operation before Christmas of this year, according to estimates made by the engineers in charge of the construction. Pouring concrete has started on the five-million-gallon reservoir on the north shoulder of Granddad bluff, and the new pumping station is nearing completion. The work has gone forward with scarcely a hitch since it was begun early in the winter. The only unforeseen circumstance was the small flood on the La Crosse river which backed up around the site of the new pumping station in the marsh and forced a stop in the work for a few days.

"One of the biggest jobs of its kind that has been started in the northwest for several years." This is the way R. G. Stowell, construction engineer of the Turner Improvement company, characterized the five-million-gallon reservoir, the building of which he is supervising up on the north shoulder of Granddad bluff.

The reservoir is just beginning to take shape and assume its definite form now that concrete pouring of the floors and walls has been begun. For some months past the giant scar on the side of the bluff over a hundred feet above the surrounding country, has been a mecca for crowds of people every Sunday afternoon, and it is impossible to go out there at any time of the day without finding a few sightseers around.

Complete Within Three Months

Two months or at most two and a half will see the completion of the concrete pouring, and the reservoir will be complete in itself, although there will be considerable more work to be done after the reservoir itself is finished before the Turner Improvement company can call themselves through with their contract.

The size of the work which the contractors have been employed upon since Christmas week is hard to conceive. Although they began work in the dead of winter, when the ground on the bluff was frozen almost to the hardness of rock, work has progressed steadily without a hitch, the most difficult part of the excavating being done during some of the winter's coldest days.

In order to get the excavating out of the way before warm weather suitable for cement work set in, the last two or three weeks of digging was done with day and night shifts at work. Three 15,000 horsepower acetylene lights with big reflectors illuminated the cut for the night men. In less than four months of digging, most of it through hard limestone and the rest through rock-hard frozen soil, more than 25,000 cubic yards of material has been scooped out of the side of the bluff, and banked up to form a big trench for the reservoir.

In Form of an "L"

The reservoir, roughly, is in the form of an L, with the sides spread a little farther than a right angle. The angle of the L extends back into the coulee on the north side of the bluff. The excavation is about 500 feet long by 80 feet wide, and in places there are cuts of forty feet in depth from the surface of the bluff to the level floor where the reservoir will be laid.

The vaccination which put this big scar on the shoulder of Granddad required between three and four tons of dynamite and blasting powder—enough to move the whole top of the bluff over upon the city if exploded all at once. At the height of the excavating the Turner Improvement company was using more than a ton a month of explosive.

Work has progressed so far that part of the floor in the west end of the reservoir is already completed. The work is being done in the most careful style, every foot of concrete work in the walls and floor being reinforced with twisted steel rods. In the walls the rods form a double network. It is estimated that the work will require the use of more than 400 tons of reinforcing rods.

Sand from Winona

For manufacturing the concrete which forms the walls and floor about 7,000 barrels of cement will

GOLDSMITH PLAY WELL RECEIVED

"She Stoops to Conquer"
 Staged by Normal
 School Buskin
 Club

Before a large and appreciative audience last night, the Buskin club of the normal school presented Oliver Goldsmith's "She Stoops to Conquer." Although using no special scenic effects the stage settings were always in accord with the text. A feature of the performance was the prologue written by Howard M. Jones and given by Young Marlow at the opening of the play.

The comedy occupied about two hours and a half in its presentation but the humorous situations kept the audience interested throughout. The ale room and garden scenes were particularly successful in staging as well as acting. While all of the cast did themselves much credit extra praise must go to Miss Marie Schaeffle who assumed the heavy role of Mr. Hard-castle with ability which would do a real man proud. Marcus Byers and George Barrett as Marlow and Hastings, Misses Hazel Wilber, Mabel Potts, and Frances Holford scored in their respective roles.

The Buskin club is directed in its performances by Prof. D. O. Coate and to him must be given much credit for the success of the evening.

The normal school orchestra and Misses Vandewater and Nowak furnished delightful musical numbers between acts.

HOLD MOTHER FOR KILLING ONLY SON

SPOKANE, Wash., May 10.—Mrs.
 Mary Johnson was arrested here on Friday charged with the murder of her only son, Raymond Johnson, 28 years of age. The accusation resulted from the verdict of a coroner's jury.

Raymond Johnson had been insured in two fraternal orders with his mother as the beneficiary. He died in convulsions at his home ten days ago and an autopsy disclosed that death had resulted from a large dose of poison.

Help Others.

Have you sorrows or trials that seem very heavy to bear? Then let me tell you that one of the best ways in the world to lighten and sweeten them is to lose yourself in the service of others, in helping to bear and lighten those of a fellow-being whose perchance, are much more grievous than your own. . . . When turned in this way, sorrow is the most beautiful soul-refiner of which the world knows, and hence not to be shunned, but, to be welcomed and rightly turned.—R.
 W. Trine.

His Maiden Name.

A colored man in old Virginia had changed masters several times, and in each new home had a new name given him. At length he fell into the hands of a master who was in the habit of consulting the wishes of his negroes, and who asked, by way of getting acquainted: "What is your name, uncle?" "Jus' as yo' say, massa; jus' as yo' say," said the darky.
 "My las' massa called me Sambo, sah, but as well as I can remember my maiden name, sah, was Noah."

Really Not His Fault.

An illiterate young man once got a friend to write a letter for him to his sweetheart. The letter was rather prosaic for a love letter, and he felt that an apology was due to his sweetheart for its lack of tender nothings. It was as follows: "Please excuse the mild-ness of this letter, as the chap wot's 'ritin' it is a married man, and he says he can't bide any soft-soaping
 —it allus gives him the spazzums."

His Way.

"Major Hornboggle, over there,"
 said the landlord of the Pruntytown tavern, with an indignant jerk of this thumb toward a passer-by, "is the most dignified man in town. When his hat blows off, he never takes the trouble to chase it, but lets the spectators do it for him. He won't loaf anywhere but in the National bank, and actually struts while he is sitting down."—Judge.

Might Do His Best.

An old reprobate of seventy protested, with outstretched hands, to Justice Hawkins against a sentence of 20 years' penal servitude, or "slavery," as he severe, but upright, lordship loved to call it. "Oh, my lord, my lord,
 I can never do it." "Never mind," came the answer. "Never mind, do as much as you can."

Wait for Permission of Goddess.

A peculiar custom prevails amongst the Lewa Kumbi caste of Gujarat, India.
 They celebrate weddings only once

THE TRIBUNE'S Daily Short Story

BACHELOR BOB

By CATHERINE COOPE

Copyright, 1913, by the McClure
 Newspaper Syndicate

Robert Gilder was a writer of fiction, and as a writer he felt privileged to hold ideas of his own.

To the oft-repeated question, "Why do you not marry and establish a home?" he invariably made the same answer:

"Marriage would simply kill, murder—inspiration. What would become of my glorious book-ladies if they were constantly thrown into the background by a blood-and-bone heroine in the way of a wife? Why, (Gilder always accompanied his exclamation with an indignant toss of his heavy chestnut hair) they would flee! No beautiful, golden-haired heroine could speak passionate love appeals to me if she felt the curli-ous eyes of my wife constantly upon her—always made to feel that material association preceded visionary ideals."

And because the populace of the tiny village in which Gilbert had made his home was not visionary they continued to angle for the good looking writer. Marriageable daughters and mothers of marriageable daughters tried to pull him into the net of matrimony.

Bachelor Bob, as he had been called,
 only smiled and continued his exceedingly happy way. He joined gayly in the village amusements in the way of dances, picnics and dinners, always singling out some bit of the feminine world for especial attention and always selecting another bit for the next occasion.

From time to time vague rumors were afloat in the village air. Gilder had been seen strolling in the twilight with a girl or he had sent red roses to Eileen O'Craig. In fact, the slip of an Irish girl with her laughing blue eyes and her dimples seemed at times to have stirred the fire of love in the writer's breast and again it was Peggy Danvers toward whom he swayed.

And through several summers gossip wagged from tongue to ear and Gilbert wrote and wrote—stories, novels and even a play.

But it was not until the arrival of the villain, in the person of John Vane, that actual trouble began. He was good to look upon, daring and a trifle unscrupulous regarding the winning of a woman.

From the first he had fallen beneath the charm of Eileen O'Craig's eye. Eileen did not exactly encourage him, yet her dimples fitted about when he came upon the scene and her cheeks took on an unwon-ted flush.

"I will get her if I have to carry her off by force from that long-haired poet," Vane had muttered upon seeing Eileen in the arms of Bachelor Bob at one of the dances.

Gilder, on his part, went his way rejoicing. He did not, by so much as the clenching of a jaw, give rise to the impression that jealousy was consuming him. He only smiled the peculiar smile that was more or less irritating in its suggestion of hidden and detached joy.

The village sat up and began to take an even keener interest in the affairs of Bachelor Bob than had already been taken. There were some who resented the intrusion of John Vane, while others rejoiced, thinking perhaps it might awaken Gilder to the possibility of a stranger who might snatch the prize from beneath his eye. For Eileen O'Craig was undoubtedly the rarest flower in the garden. But there was always an unanswered question:

"Would Bachelor Bob care if an other man won the heart of Eileen?"
 A few weeks passed and the rolling stone of gossip grew to ugly proportions. A rumor, connecting the names of Gilder and Eileen was whispered about.

Those who favored Vane listened with open ears. Those who resented him closed their ears and disliked him the more.

She was seen to flit through the gardens that skirted the property and enter Gilder's library. Gossip's tongue wagged eloquently, "and it was after 10 o'clock at night."

Naturally enough the two concerned were kept in blissful ignorance of the story that was fast circulating throughout the village. Eileen had refused John Vane for the third time, and she was less interested in his watchful eyes than she might well have been.

But the scowl that brooded in Vane's eyes boded ill for those who thwarted them.

"I will stand every night at the foot of her garden until I catch her leaving him," he muttered, and took up his position for the evening watch.

It was perhaps 9:30 before Eileen threw down the typed manuscript she had been reading. After that she flung on a long dark cloak, put the manuscript within its ample pocket and tripped out in the moonlight night. Her footsteps were light and hurried and her breath came in little gasps. She felt suddenly fearful, as if she were being pursued, and when she tapped at the windows that opened swiftly to admit her she was trembling.

"Darling!" Gilder had taken her close in his arms, "you are trembling with fright. I forbid you to come through those woods alone," he told her tenderly, and kissed her lips and eyes and hair. When she looked up and smiled into his eyes her fears had gone, and he seated her in his big chair by the writing desk.

Eileen drew him down on the arm beside her.

"I want you right here—where I can touch you," she said, and dropped her head upon his shoulder.

"Your last story is the best of all,"
 she told him with a proud smile.

"That demon of jealousy has produced me on," he replied with a smile.

The color crept into Eileen's cheeks. "He proposed for the third time today," she said.

"And you refused him?" questioned Bachelor Bob with a laugh.

"Since I do not want to commit bigamy—yes—Oh! Bobby, what was that?" She would have run into the adjoining room, but John Vane was too quick for her. He entered by the same window that she herself had used and stood with a grin on his face.

"We are rather privileged to receive so late a call," Bob Gilder said, and his face had gone white about the jaw.

"I was attracted by the fact that you had another caller, and thought I might not be intruding." His smile brought the swift blood to Eileen's cheeks and took the remaining color out of Gilbert's.

"You insinuating cad!" he said in low tones that made the other back involuntarily toward the window.

"This woman is my wife and has been for the last three years. We did you good night," he said, and when John Vane had withdrawn with the speed of a convict, Bachelor Bob turned again to his wife and drew her close.

"Do you suppose we will have to tell the village now?" asked Eileen with a little wistful smile. "It will spoil all our fun and mystery and your book ladies will be furious at me."

"The book ladies will have to be furious," Gilder told her. "I can not live any longer on stolen meetings—I want you here at my side always, dearest. You will come—won't you?"
 Eileen's arm went up about his neck and she drew his head down.

"I have already come," she said.

Daddy's Bedtime Story— The Boy At the Masthead.

WHEN daddy told Jack and Evelyn the name of this story, of course
 Jack asked at once:

"What's a masthead, daddy?"
 Daddy answered: "That means the very head or top of a mast of a ship. This story happened about a hundred years ago, before there were any steamships, and the larger ships had very high masts on which to raise the sails."

"There was a boy who was the son of the captain of one of these large sailing ships. I do not know his name, so we'll call him Tom."
 "Well, Tom's father took him with him on his voyages to far parts of the earth, and so the boy, as far as his strength allowed him, was becoming a very good sailor. The men on board of the ship were fond of him, for he was a bright, active little fellow, and they taught him how to make sailors' knots and raise the sails and help to drop and raise the anchor and mend the canvas of the sails and do the other work which sailors of that day used to do. But above all things Tom, like all other boys, used to like to climb the masts."

"The ship was lying at anchor in a harbor far across the sea. She was waiting for her cargo, and there was nothing for the crew to do, so they were lying about the deck enjoying the warm sunshine. Suddenly one of them looked up and let out a cry of fear."

"The others rushed to him. He could not talk. He could only point to the top of the mainmast of the ship. There, standing up on the very top, was Tom. In a spirit of mischief he had climbed to the very top, and now he was standing there, frightened and helpless, too scared to try to climb down. The ship was moving slowly with the waves, and he could keep his feet, but that was about all."

"It seemed that no one could help him and he must fall to the deck and be crushed to death. Some of the sailors rushed for the mast to climb to him, but it was plainly to be seen that before any of them could get up the boy would fall and be killed. What was to be done?"

"Just then the captain came out of his cabin and saw his boy in such terrible danger. For a moment he stood helpless; then he rushed back into the cabin and came out with his gun. Pointing it at Tom, he cried out as loudly as he could:

"Jump, Tom, jump. Jump far out into the water or I will fire at you!"
 "It was the boy's only chance for safety. In the water he might be saved, but if he fell on deck he would surely be killed. He heard his father's cry and waves the sailors had a boat out, and they saved him. But he never again climbed to the masthead."

THE ONE WHO KNOWS DENIES MOOSE YARN

In an interview yesterday Governor McGovern vigorously criticized The Tribune and the Milwaukee Journal for publishing headlines to the effect that he had definitely renounced the republican party and allied himself with the "bull moose" organization. The governor characterized this statement as false.

We published the headlines as our interpretation of two dispatches: one from Madison saying the governor had angrily declined an "invitation" to participate in the forthcoming republican meeting there; the other from Milwaukee saying that the governor had accepted an invitation to attend the "bull moose" party meeting there. These two stories, coupled with the action of McGovern in deserting LaFollette for Roosevelt in the republican national convention, we accepted as sufficient warrant for the assumption that the governor had burned his bridges.

The error of this paper, if it erred, was in accepting as true the Milwaukee dispatch, which credited to Francis E. Davison, "bull moose" county chairman, the statement that Governor McGovern had "signified his intention of attending the progressive dinner here June 6." Had we not presumed that this was true, we should not have said in our headlines that the governor had come out OPENLY as a "bull moose." Regardless of the fact that an issue of veracity seems to have been raised between the chief executive and Chairman Davison, we hasten to withdraw a statement based upon information the reliability of which is in question.

However, we reserve the right to regard the party status of the governor as far from unequivocal. The Chicago defection was not a party renunciation, because at that time the new minority party had not been born and McGovern merely deserted one republican for another; it is possible, also, to regard Governor McGovern's declaration to attend a state republican dinner as an intra-party quarrel. "But there can be no misunderstanding of the assumption of Colonel Roosevelt, 'bull moose' leader, that McGovern is a 'bull moose,'" witness the following statement made by the colonel:

"I believe with all my heart in the Wisconsin type of Progressivism, the PROGRESSIVISM OF GOV. MCGOVERN AND OF COCHEMS, AND OF OUR PARTY GENERALLY."

If Governor McGovern desires in future to be spared the annoyance of the presumption that he is a "bull moose" let him avoid such indefinite and negative declarations as that he has not accepted an invitation to a dinner of one party or that he would attend a genuine harmony gathering of the other. When Dave Hill said, "I am a democrat," he framed phraseology that may be easily transposed ready to the governor's tongue. Why not say, "I am a republican!"?

In Wisconsin no man can lead a double political existence and get away with it. If "trotter dear charmer" has no strings on Governor McGovern, a direct statement of that fact would make for domestic felicity and serve to discourage the outrageous flirtations of the designing third party whose not inadequate defense is that the governor has not discouraged her amorous attentions.

PLAYING OF FRIEDMANN ARTISTIC ACHIEVEMENT

The declaration of the government that the Friedmann consumption cure does not stand the test of practical application seems to justify the previous militant warning of the Journal of the American Medical Association that the "secret remedy" of the "obscure bacteriologist" had not been demonstrated to be the cure he claims, and that paper's appeal to the press of America to undo the injury it has done in aiding the "disgraceful exploitation" of the alleged cure by advising the public that nothing thus far made public justifies faith in it or serves as a guarantee that it is not positively harmful. In its indictment The Journal says:

"Now it is announced that a deal has been consummated through which he is to get a large sum of money immediately, with great prospects for the future. It is safe, therefore, to conclude that he has realized the ideal he had in mind when he landed on our golden shores. Greeted with courteous open-mindedness at first, he seems to have been received with open arms by shrewd and not too scrupulous promoters who were eagerly watching for a chance to reap a harvest in partnership with him. Unless there is some totally unforeseen governmental action, or unless some well-nigh impossible wave of skepticism sweeps over the land, it looks as though the dollars to be wrenched from the wasted hands of the tuberculous would make a harvest which would exceed the reaping of all previous efforts to buncle the sick."

The medical publication then proceeded with a merciless analysis of Friedmann's history on both continents, declaring that he shirked the requirements of the German law that accorded him a bounty on his cure sufficient to make him, if it actually cured, financially independent; that he came to this country, flouting the medical laws, ignoring his ethical obligation to prove his claims, seeking dealings with men eager to use his notoriety to exploit the public, and in every way repulsing the faith of legitimate scientists. The concluding paragraph follows:

"Will the American public and the American press tolerate this attempt to make our unfortunate consumptives a source of gain for a rapacious foreigner, promoting a remedy of unproved merit in violation of the spirit of our laws?"

We agree fully with all The Journal says by way of criticism, provided its premises and the conclusions of the government are correct. Nothing could be more vicious than the exploitation of victims of this ravaging disease.

CASTS HIS BREAD UPON THE WATERS

Manager Thurston Owens, of the La Crosse Gas and Electric company, has offered the board of trade a cash donation equal to half the first year's light and power bill of a factory located on a free site. The money is to be spent by the board in organization work.

We do not regard Manager Owens' proposition as in any sense philanthropic. Rather it is a practical business investment. Manager Owens is selling electric current; factories consume electric current. Ergo, whenever Mr. Owens becomes instrumental in bringing a factory to La Crosse he is increasing his market.

Should Mr. Owens' fund help bring a factory to La Crosse he would sell current to the plant and to its owners and employees in their homes. We would sell them Tribunes. Our marchants who advertise in The Tribune would sell them food and clothing and other merchandise. In a general way every live factor in the community would profit by the coming of the new enterprise.

Citizens should show their appreciation of the kind of enterprise that induced Manager Owens to make his wise offer to the board of trade.

Quips and Cranks and Wanton Wiles

Now
Rise! for the day is passing,
And you lie dreaming on;
The others have buckled their armor,
And forth to the fight are gone;
A place in the ranks awaits you;
Each man has some part to play;
The Past and the Future are nothing
In the face of the stern Today.

Rise from your dreams of the Future
Of gaining some hard-fought field;
Of storming some airy fortress,
Or bidding some giant yield;
Your Future has deeds of glory,
Of honor (God grant it may!)
But your arm will never be stronger,
Or the need so great as Today.

Rise! if the Past detains you,
Her sunshine and storms forget;
No chains so unworthy to hold you
As those of a vain regret.
Sad or bright, she is lifeless ever;
Cast her phantom arms away;
Nor look back, save to learn the lesson
Of a nobler strife Today.

Rise! for the day is passing;
The sound that you scarcely hear
Is the enemy marching to battle;
Arise! for the foe is here!
Stay not to sharpen your weapons,
Or the hour will strike at last
When from dreams of a coming battle
You may wake to find it past.

Rapid Cow or Slow Train?
It was a cruel thing to say about a nice railroad whose chief aim was the speedy transportation of its passengers, but the conversation had turned to lightning expresses, and Wallace Irwin, the author, simply could not help it.

On the road in question, as Mr. Irwin related the story, a train stopped one day and the passengers were told that a cow had got on the track and had to be driven off.

Up the road a few miles farther the train stopped again, and once more the explanation was given that a cow was on the track. Two miles, perhaps, of continuous going, and then came another stop. This time a passenger glanced wearily toward the end of the car.

"Mr. Conductor," he called out in yawning accents, "could I speak to you a moment?"

"Certainly," answered the conductor, moving down the aisle, "what is it?"

"Do you really mean to say," returned the passenger in a voice that was almost a sigh, "that we have caught up to that cow again?"

"Well, your worship," answered the milkman, "the night before it was raining very hard and the only cause I can give is the cow must have got wet through."—Harper's Weekly.

"Why you act like you was afraid!" said Custer, with withering contempt.

His words cut the elder Shrimplin like a knife; but they did not move him from his seat in the cart.

"You bet I ain't afraid, Custer—and that's no way for you to speak to your pa, anyhow!"

But what he had intended should be the note of authority was no more than a whine of injury.

"Then why don't you come if you ain't afraid?" insisted the boy angrily.

"I don't know as I rightly know why I don't!" faltered Mr. Shrimplin. "I feel rotten bad all at once."

"You're a coward!" cried the boy in a fierce scorn.

Sobs choked his further utterance while the hot tears blinded him on the instant. His idol had turned to clay in his very presence, and in the desolation of that moment he wished that he might be stricken with death, since life held nothing for him longer.

"Custer—" began Shrimplin.

"Why don't you be a man and go down there?" sobbed the boy.

"It's dangerous!" said Mr. Shrimplin.

"Then I'll go!" declared Custer resolutely.

"What—and leave me here alone?" cried the little lamplighter.

For answer Custer ran to the fence; his tears still blinded him and sobs wrenched his little body. Twice he slipped back as he essayed to climb, but a third attempt took him to the topmost rail of the rickety structure.

"Custer!" called his father.

But Custer persisted in the crime of disobedience. He slid down from the top rail and stood among the young pokeberry bushes and ragweed that luxuriated in the foulness of the slaughter-house yard. It was not an especially inviting spot even in broad day, as he knew. Now the moonlight showed him bleached animal bones and grinning animal skulls, while the damp woods that clung about his bare legs suggested snakes.

"Custer!" cried Mr. Shrimplin again.

But it gained him no response from the boy, who disappeared from before his eyes without a single backward glance; whereat the little lamplighter cursed querulously in the fear-haunted solitude of the road.

Custer descended the steep bank that sloped down to the water's edge. His eyes were fixed on a dense growth of willows and sycamores that lined the shore; it was from a spot within their black shadows that the cries for help seemed to come. Presently he paused.

"Hullo!" he called, peering into the darkness ahead of him.

He listened intently, but this time his cry was unanswered; all he heard was the grunting of some pigs that fed among the offal. The boy shivered and his heart seemed to stop beating.

"Hullo!" he called once more.

"Help!" came the answer.

And Custer stumbled forward. As he neared the black shadows of the willows he could feel his heart sink like lead through all the reaches of his shaking anatomy. He had passed quite beyond the hearing of his father's commands and reproaches, and the wash and rush of the river came up to him out of the silence.

"Hullo!" cried the boy, pausing irresolutely.

Then seemingly from the earth at his very feet came a faint answer to his call, and Custer, forcing his way through a rank growth of weeds and briars, stood on the brink of a deep gully that a small brook had worn for itself on its way to the river below. In the bed of this brook was a dark object that Custer could hardly distinguish to be the figure of a man. A bruised and bleeding face was upturned.

"Give me your hand—" gasped the man.

Custer knelt on the bank and grasping a tuft of grass to steady himself extended his free hand.

"Are you hurt bad?" he asked.

"I don't know—" gasped the man, as he endeavored to draw himself up out of the bed of the brook.

But after a moment of fruitless exertion he sank back groaning.

"Go for help!" he said, in a painful whisper. "You are not strong enough for this."

"How did you get here?" asked Custer.

"I fell off the railroad bridge, the current landed me here; where am I, anyhow?"

"At the brick slaughter-house," said Custer.

"I thought so; can't you get some one to help you?"

But Custer, his reasonable curiosity satisfied, was already on his way back to the road. "If only pa has not driven off!" But the senior Shrimplin had not moved from the spot where Custer had left him five minutes before.

"Is that you, son?" he asked, as Custer appeared at the fence.

"Come here, quick!" commanded the boy.

"For what?" inquired Mr. Shrimplin.

"You needn't be afraid, it's only a man who's fallen off the iron bridge. He's down in the bed of the slaughter-house run. I can't get him out alone!"

"I'll bet he's good and drunk!" said the little lamplighter.

"No, he ain't, and he's mighty badly hurt!" said the boy hotly.

"Of course, of course, Custer!" said Mr. Shrimplin. "He'd a been killed though if he hadn't been drunk."

He climbed out of his cart, and clambered over the fence. Something in Custer's manner warned him that any allusions of a jocular nature would prove highly distasteful to his son, and he followed silently as Custer led the way down to the brook.

"Here's where he is!" said the boy halting. "You get down beside him—you're strongest, and I'll stay here and help pull him up while you lift!"

"That's the idea, son!" agreed Mr. Shrimplin genially.

And he slid down into the bed of the brook where he struggled to get the injured man to his feet. The first and immediate result of his effort was that the latter swore fiercely at him, though in a whisper.

"We got to get you out of this, mister!" said the little lamplighter apologetically.

A second attempt was made in which they were aided by Custer from above, and this time the injured man was drawn to the top of the bank, where he collapsed in a heap.

"He's fainted!" said Custer. "Strike a match and see who it is!"

Mr. Shrimplin obeyed, bringing the light close to the bloody and disfigured face.

"Why, it's Marsh Lingham!" he cried.

Big Bank Accounts

With hardly an exception, depositors in the savings department of this bank are possessed of bigger bank balances than ever before.

Naturally, all these savings customers started in a small way—some with ten dollars, many with a single dollar, yet all intent upon building up a bank account a dollar at a time.

They are succeeding and succeeding well. It seemed slow the first few months. Now they advance more rapidly for their semi-annual 3 per cent interest is a big help.

HERD OF CATTLE SCATTERED BY CAR

Talk on Mill street this morning, centered around the antics of a shipment of cattle that were consigned to a cattle raiser on French Island. After arriving here, the bovine increased their number, and caused havoc for a while by their persistency in trailing up the sidewalk, in preference to the middle of the street.

Upon their arrival at a late hour last night in the Milwaukee yards, the cattle started their activities with series of loud bellowings, causing residents in the vicinity of the side track upon which they were standing to lose considerable sleep.

This morning the cattle were unloaded in the yards near Mill street. All went well until they encountered a street car and several automobiles, when they showed marked aversion to city ways. L. B. Perkins of French Island in his endeavors to conduct the animals to the island in safety, via Mill street, was assisted by his daughter, who showed her ability as a cow girl, riding a horse. Mr. Perkins and his daughter finally corralled the unmanageable animals in a vacant lot.

Upon the arrival of the cattle last night, an employee of the railroad company counted them, and upon recounting them this morning, found that their number had increased by two, two tiny calves being found in the cars.

FIVE CARS OF EGGS

The biggest egg shipment for several years arrived in the city this morning via the Milwaukee, over the Southern Minnesota division from Lakefield, Mankato and Albert Lea, Minn. In all there were five cars.

Possibly the seasons really are changing. Anyway, the silly season is now on tap all the year around.

HAS WORKED HARD FOR KINDERGARTEN

Miss Mabel A. MacKinney has just retired as president of the International Kindergarten Union, which held its annual meeting in Washington. Under her administration for the past two years the organization has grown greatly, and she left the chief office with the union in a flourishing condition.

TO SOLICIT FROM BUSINESS MEN

Plan Building 200 by 120 Feet to Accommodate Growing Manufacturing Concern

It was assured last night at the special meeting of the North Side Progressive league that within 36 hours the remainder of the sum needed for the erection of the factory of the Hans Motor Equipment company which will be situated on Caledonia and Gillette streets, would be raised.

The meeting was called to reappoint special committees to call on business men on the north side who have promised to subscribe to the fund. Nearly the entire amount has already been raised. Fifteen members have offered their aid in the soliciting.

The site that the Hans company will occupy covers an entire block, and two additional lots. The factory which will be erected will only occupy a portion of the property, but other buildings will be erected for storage purposes. Mr. Hans, president of the concern, made the statement last night that within a year after the proposed factory is erected there will have to be an addition built.

The ground that the factory proper will cover, will be 200 by 120 feet, and a wing for storage purposes will be 40 by 60 feet. One side of the building will be so constructed as to allow for an addition to be built on to it at any time.

At the present every square foot of the Hans company is being utilized to the utmost advantage, their machinery being placed closer together. The new factory will have 30,000 feet of floor space.

PENTECOST SERVICE

The Bethel Lutheran church will hold their pentecost service tomorrow. The sermon, "The Spirit of Truth," will be given by the pastor, Rev. Christianson. In addition to the regular services the choir will render two special songs, "Heavenly Glory" and "God's Mercy." In the evening, the former pastor of the Bethel Lutheran church, who is in the city for a few days, will preach the sermon. Tuesday a temperance lecture will be given in the auditorium of the church by Rev. Hermanson.

Regions Still Unexplored.

The mighty mass of the Himalayas, the loftiest of all mountains, "the roof of the world," has not been penetrated to its center. No man has yet approached nearer than a hundred miles from the foot of Mount Everest, which lifts its snowy head five miles and a half above sea level. There are lofty valleys among the Himalayas of whose existence and whose inhabitants only traditions are known.

Had Learned Caution.

"I want an engagement ring—something cheap that looks good." "Don't you want it solid?" "No. Something for about 75 cents." "Certainly, we have them." "That's what I want. You see it's like this—seven girls have thrown me over in the last six months, and I've lost a perfectly good ring each time."

Wise Advice.

Let every dawn of morning be to you as the beginning of life, and every setting sun be to you as its close; then let every one of these short lives leave its sure record of some kindly thing done for others, some goodly strength or knowledge gained for yourselves.—John Ruskin.

Scripture to Prove It.

A young girl was caught kissing her sweetheart a few days ago. Her mother took her to task for such actions, but the girl silenced her by this quotation: "Whatsoever ye would that men should do unto you do ye even so unto them." The old woman wilted. Memories of old were brought forcibly to her mind.

All Aboard!

"So you are living in the suburbs now," said Jasper. "I should think you would find the walking bad there." "Walking!" replied Mr. Nutley, "who said anything about walking? Nobody walks in the suburbs. We commuters always have to run."

Bad Case.

"Did you hear about the dreadful mistake Dr. Sawbones made? That man he operated on for appendicitis didn't have what the doctor thought he had." "Didn't have appendicitis at all, eh?" "Oh, he had appendicitis, all right, but he didn't have any money."

About All.

When a young lawyer gets his first case his fiancée recalls all she has read about $50,000 fees. But the first case usually nets about five plunks.

"CASCARETS" FOR SICK HEADACHE

Bilious, throbbing headache means Bowels are clogged and liver stagnant

You're bilious, you have a throbbing sensation in your head, a bad taste in your mouth, your eyes burn, your skin is yellow, with dark rings under your eyes; your lips are parched. No wonder you feel ugly, mean and ill-tempered. Your system is full of bile not properly passed off, and what you need is a cleaning up inside. Don't continue being a bilious nuisance to yourself and those who love you, and don't resort to harsh physics that irritate and injure. Remember that most disorders of the stomach, liver and intestines can be quickly cured by morning with gentle, thorough Cascarets—they work while you sleep. A 10 cent box from your druggist will keep your liver and bowels clean; stomach sweet and your head clear for months. Children love to take Cascarets, because they taste good and never gripe or sicken.

SPREADER KILLS TWO LITTLE GIRLS

EAU CLAIRE, Wis., May 10.—The 5 year old daughter of Rudolph Kuhnert was instantly killed and another daughter, aged 4, fatally injured when the children were caught on a manure spreader the father was driving. The teeth of the cylinder tore off the elder girl's head. The younger girl was cut about the face and head.

ONLY NERVOUS

The sufferer from Neurasthenia (lack of nerve force) frequently places himself in the "only nervous" class. Let us see why he is nervous. That "bord" feeling becomes chronic. Every little exertion of mind or body is followed by fatigue out of all proportion.
He has a great deal of headache and frequently has backache. All manner of vague sensations, such as heat, cold, prickling, numbness, stiffness, soreness, pain and pressure felt in limbs or any part of the body. Eyes seem affected, sounds and smells may become exaggerated and any slight surprise produces a real nervous shock. He has nervous indigestion, with variable appetite and constipation, or diarrhoea is common. There is palpitation of the heart or pains around the heart annoy and distress the poor sufferer, who becomes from these accumulated troubles full of anxiety and fear. These sensations become symptoms of disease and in time the symptoms become chronic and if permitted to run their course, lead the victim into maladies which break down the nerve force so that he or she is unfit for work or pleasure. For the man or woman so afflicted to think there is nothing the matter is a serious injustice and a great injury.

Only Nervous? Diagnosis is difficult and that is why so many fail to cure neurasthenics. Nervousness is the costume and mask—the outward appearance—so imperfectly seen and comprehended by the inexperienced that its true significance, that what is beneath—the underlying cause for the trouble—is overlooked. If you are "only nervous" you must awaken to the dangers of neglecting the nervousness and you must not permit yourself to drift into conditions which will bring on maladies that will prove a menace to your future.

Bulb Hint.

If bulbs of the paper narcissus are planted in sand and water in glass bowls they will bloom in four weeks.
They are very fragrant and delicate,
the bloom lasting two weeks, at least.
This is the easiest way of culture. In this way it is possible to keep up a succession of bloom during the winter.
The paper narcissus is one of the cheapest as well as one of the prettiest of bulbs.—Suburban Life.

Did you ever realize that the greatest kicker in the world is a jackass?
Did it ever dawn on you that this is just as true of THE TWO LEGGED KICKER as of the four legged one?

For example, who could be a more perfect jackass than the man who kicks about his own town?

The ass kicks because he is built that way, and the man kicks because he is built the same way.

The ass usually has something to kick at, but the man often kicks about nothing at all.

Get out of the kicking habit and be a booster.

It pays—pays the individual and pays the community.

Wouldn't you rather live in a GOOD town than a POOR one?

All right, then; help to make your town a good one.

Talk it up, arouse the town spirit, GET EVERYBODY TO BOOSTING.

Anybody can kick, but it takes a good man to boost.

Be a good citizen! Get the habit!

at the first session of the committee.

The affidavit, as indicated by the testimony, charges that on the night of January 17, the young lieutenant governor, with Thomas Vredenburg, a young millionaire lumberman of Springfield, and the Robinson woman and another girl, spent the night at the Sherman hotel, registering as married couples.

Names Madison Woman

The name of Samuel Davis, liquor dealer and member of the firm of Davis, Ensell & Co., of Springfield, was mentioned by Mrs. Robinson. She testified that it was Davis who induced her to sign the affidavit against O'Hara.

Lieutenant Governor O'Hara took the stand this afternoon when the committee resumed its sessions.

O'Hara Denies Story
The young lieutenant governor began a detailed statement of his movements on the night mentioned in the affidavit.

"I was returning to Chicago on a Chicago & Alton train when I met Thomas Vredenburg and Mrs. Robinson in a rear coach," he said. "We rode to Chicago together and upon my arrival here I went home. While I was doing some errands about the city I met John Burke, former governor of North Dakota, now secretary of the United States treasury, and Senator J. Hamilton Lewis. They invited me to a dinner at the Hotel La Salle, but I declined and accepted an invitation from Manager Sam Lederer of the Olympic theater to attend a performance there."

"After the show I accompanied Vredenburg and two girls to the Sherman hotel. Vredenburg explained to me that the girls registered there because they wanted to entertain gentlemen friends. I did not register as man and wife with Mrs. Robinson. I never stopped at the Sherman hotel in my life and certainly not with a woman."

RUSSELL WEBB IS SPOUTFEST CHAMP

Local High School Boy Beats Field at Tomah Oratorical Contest

Russell Webb, of the local high school won the annual league oratorical contest at Tomah last night, two of the judges giving him first place and the other a third. As a result Webb, together with Joe Roman of Viroqua, who won second place, will represent this part of the state in the western district to determine who will go to the state meet. Wm. Walker, also of the local school, was defeated for second place by Roman by one-third of one per cent. The titles of the selections delivered by the three winners are as follows:

Joe Roman—"Robert Emmet's Last Speech."

Sanford. On the first ballot Murray received 10, Montague 1, McMillan 6 and Sanford 4. Montague then dropped out of the race and McMillan received 10 votes with Sanford holding the single vote as balance of power. Alderman E. O. Schultz swung his vote from Sanford on the last ballot to Murray, giving him the majority of one.

The mayor's appointments of C. L. Baldwin as alternate justice of the peace for the city at large, and L. H. Martin as member of the fire and police commission were unanimously ratified.

Alderman Frank Kohn nearly demoralized the council by presenting the unpronounceable name of John Knozski as a candidate for constable of the Second ward to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Harry Palmer. City Clerk E. H. Hoffman was reduced to a state of tears by the alderman's tongue.

Twisted efforts to vote for Knozski. Each separate vote resulted in another burst of laughter and Alderman Dowden nearly floored the entire audience by making several attempts and then finally giving up and voting "aye." Knozski was literally "sneezed" into office.

Car Company Hit

Several ordinances and resolutions affecting the La Crosse Street Railroad company were introduced and referred to committees. The most significant of these was one preferred by Alderman Ryhold of the Twenty-first ward. The ordinance makes it compulsory on the street car company to operate their cars with only experienced motormen and is intended to prevent the employment of "strike breakers" in the event of trouble with their men. The city attorney was ordered to start suit against the company to collect for a share of the last year's street oiling which the company has refused to pay. A resolution was passed ordering the board of public works to cancel their street sprinkling agreement with the company and this was followed with an ordinance to compel the company to pay for the oiling of that part of the street between their tracks on all streets except brick paved.

Alderman Houska introduced a resolution intended to find out the cost and results of the two methods of street cleaning—by machine or

DELAY BIG WEEK FOR GOOD RESULT

Manufacturers Want Plenty of Time to Make a Creditable Showing

ALL ARE IN FAVOR OF PLAN

Home Made Week Scheme Entered Into Heartily by All at the Meeting

That the proposed Home Made Week is too big an undertaking to be rushed into headlong was the consensus of the manufacturers who met at the city hall last night, to discuss the proposition with the committee appointed by the board of trade. As a consequence, it is considered certain that the exhibit will not be held the week of May 26, as was originally planned.

Of the score of manufacturers at the meeting last night, every one was heartily in favor of the plan. All expressed their willingness to co-operate, but they insisted that the date suggested did not give them sufficient time to make preparations in proper style. They are determined to "do themselves proud," and want plenty of time.

To Meet Merchants

As a result of this feeling, the committee of the board of trade, appointed to make arrangements for Home Made Week, which is composed of five manufacturers, will meet with the board of directors of the Retail Merchants' Protective association either today or Monday, and map out a complete line of action. The date will be set far enough ahead to permit of elaborate arrangements. The joint committee will also come to a definite understanding upon the apportionment of the expense.

The work is to be rushed, and definite lines of action worked out as soon as possible.

That the merchants are also in favor of Home Made Week was shown by the report of the board of trade committee. They have secured the promise of every merchant in the retail business district to give his show windows for a week to the manufacturers, and many of them will also give a section of floor space for demonstrations and the like.

At the meeting last night, President William Doerflinger of the board of trade presented a mass of data collected from the experience of other cities with affairs of this kind. He urged that the window displays of the manufacturers be as striking as possible, and gave suggestions for possible windows. He also suggested that a contest for the best designed Home Made Week card be held, in order to select a uniform design to be placed in each window. He urged that a band be engaged to draw people to the downtown streets. He said that the matter of extra lighting would be cared for by the La Crosse Gas and Electric company. They are willing, he said, to string festoons of lights between the white way standards.

Suggests Fare Rebate

Mr. Doerflinger also suggested that a rebate on fare be given to any merchants from the district tributary to La Crosse who purchased a certain amount of products manufactured in the city. He said that each retailer should specialize in his advertising during Home Made Week on La Crosse-made articles.

The committee of manufacturers representing the board of trade is composed of A. P. Funk, L. H. Martin, C. P. Thompson, H. J. Hirshmeier and W. R. Montague.

by hand. The resolution provides that the street commissioner make a report on both methods and that seven "white wings" be employed for the investigation. The resolution passed.

Eagles to Give Carnival

A petition presented by La Crosse aerie No. 1254 of Eagles, asking for permission to put on a street carnival on the market square June 23 to 29 was allowed.

Several ordinances and resolutions fixing the grades of streets, and preparing for paving or other improvements and one compelling the city to notify individual property owners of improvement assessments were referred to committees.

River Boundary Fixed

The judiciary committee's recommendation that the board of arbitrators' report setting the boundary line in the La Crosse river in the Wisconsin Pearl Button works dispute was adopted.

The socialists' petition for the establishment of a purchasing department was referred to the committee on judiciary.

An appropriation for $100 for Memorial day exercises was voted.

Alderman Mahoney introduced a resolution calling for municipal baths on the north side and for the La Crosse river to a projected motor boat levee. He also introduced a resolution for the building of a high school on the north side. These resolutions were all referred to committees.

PLAN TO REFORM REPUBLICAN PARTY

Cummins and Other Progressive Statesmen to Meet in Chicago Monday

DRASTIC MEASURES PROPOSED

Change in Southern Delegates and National Primary to Be Discussed

CHICAGO, May 10.—Senator Cummings of Iowa and several other republicans of progressive leanings, were expected to arrive here today in advance of the conference called by the Iowan for Monday to initiate a movement for the reorganization of the republican party.

Former Governor Hadley of Missouri, former Senator Bourne of Oregon, Senators Clapp of Minnesota, Sherman of Illinois, Borah of Idaho, Norris of Nebraska, and Works of California, were expected to attend. It was announced that Senator La Follette, Poindexter and Bristow had declined invitations to the conference.

Congressional reapportionment on a new basis affecting the representation of the south, a national primary to select presidential candidates three years hence and the drafting of a new party platform were among the measures to be discussed.

ON LAST LAP OF BIG RESERVOIR ON GRANDDAD BLUFF

be used, together with about 10,000 tons of sand and crushed rock. The sand used is shipped in from Winona, and the crushed rock is supplied by the La Crosse Stone company. One hundred and fifty thousand feet of lumber will be necessary to construct the forms for pouring the concrete.

The pouring is done by means of a unique labor-saving device the foundation of which is a wooden tower or scaffolding, a little more than 140 feet high. At the bottom of the tower is a cement mixer and a big steam hoisting engine. The mixed concrete is hoisted almost to the top of the tower and then turned into a long pipeline which carries it over and deposits it wherever it is wanted inside the forms. The pipeline is strung by means of pulleys from a three hundred foot steel cable which is anchored to a tree on the side of the bluff opposite from the tower. The spout of the pipeline is so fixed that it can be directed to any desired point on the work, and the whole system does the work of hundreds of men with wheelbarrows.

Concrete Mixed Below

The concrete is all mixed in the coulee below the big fill which marks the south side of the reservoir. Crossing the coulee is a stout bridge, with trapdoors, and upon these the wagon loads of stone and sand are driven. The jerk of a lever empties the wagons of their loads, which drop through the trap doors into the big bins beneath.

The outlet and intake of the big reservoir is a big square tunnel, five feet each way, with a valve arrangement at the end nearest the reservoir to control supply.

Practically Invisible

When completed, the reservoir will be practically invisible, except for half a dozen manholes. The whole big basin will be roofed over and above the roof will be spread a foot of earth to prevent the contents from freezing in cold weather and from contamination. The outside walls will be banked up with earth and completely covered.

The construction of the reservoir is of the solidest type. The walls are to be twenty inches thick, and are sunk three feet below the level of the floor to prevent slippage in the foundations. There are to be 176 big concrete reinforced pillars inside to guard against collapse of the roof.

Pumping Station

The work of erecting the five pumping houses, and the reservoir in Myrick marsh, which will supply La Crosse with artesian water, has made rapid strides toward completion in the past few weeks. The five pumping houses which are to be directly connected with the large reservoir on Granddad bluff, when completed, will form one of the most unique and extensive systems of drawing water in the northwest.

Living parallel with Black river, and extending from below La Crosse to Black River Falls, is a strata of granite covered with several feet of gravel through which flows numerous underground springs. This allows of easy access. Each of the five houses will contain four pumps which will be operated with electric motors, the power to be generated in a building near the small reservoir.

The mains leading to the reservoir from the pump houses, are 26 inches in diameter, and will lead from the reservoir to water mains on King and Pine streets, and to the larger reservoir on the bluff.

"Small" Reservoir at Station

The reservoir is to be 102 by 106 feet, and 16 feet deep, when full to capacity holding 1,000,000 gallons of water. This will make an even pressure at all times, in all water mains in the city. The large reservoir on the bluff will be used when the small pumping house reservoir cannot supply the demand.

The work of building the pumping houses and the reservoir is being done by the Western Construction company, under the supervision of M. J. Lyons. The pump houses will be completed about the last of the week, when the work of concreting the reservoir will be started. It is thought by Mr. Lyons that the whole contract will be completed about the first part of October. This system of supplying the city with water is being used in many of the larger cities throughout the country.

WARNS AGAINST PLAGUE "CURES"

Health Service Surgeon Says Only Tried Methods Should Be Used

WASHINGTON, May 10.—"Food, air, sunshine, proper living—NOT the panacea widely heralded or recommended by some willing 'friends'—these may effect a cure for tuberculosis."

This was the message to sufferers from the white plague which Dr. D. C. Rucker, assistant surgeon general of the United States public health service, delivered through the United Press today.

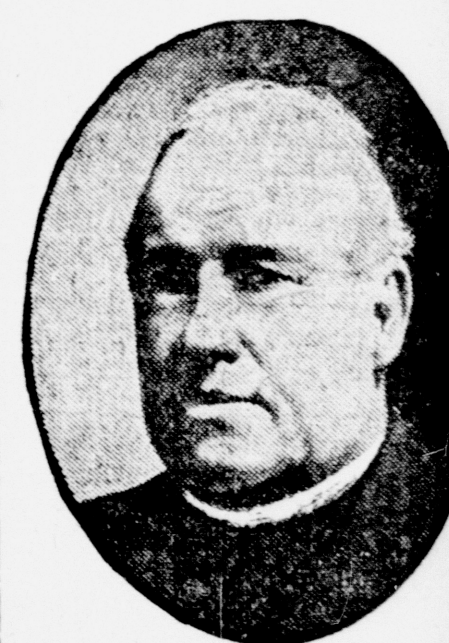

"The government cannot tell white plague victims not to use the 'Friedmann remedy,'" said Dr. Rucker, "and it cannot recommend it until its curative powers are proved or disproven. We are making an absolutely impartial investigation of its merits. I can only ask that all tuberculosis sufferers who contemplate the Friedmann cure read carefully the following paragraph contained in the public health service formal report:

"We are in a position to state that the effects thus far observed do not justify the confidence in the remedy which has been inspired by widespread publicity."

"These recognized remedies," the doctor continued, "are nourishing food—lots of it—with meat, eggs, butter and milk; fresh air morning noon and night; with a minimum of exercise—sunshine—all the time the sun is shining—and proper living—long hours of sleep, no smoking, no alcoholic liquors. These have been proven of enormous value in the cure of tuberculosis. No other cure, no matter how well advertised, has yet done as much."

WELCH & FRANCIS TO CLOSE SEASON

SPOTLIGHTS

"THE CONCERT"

The rare artistry of David Belasco will be on view at the La Crosse theater next week, Tuesday, May 13, when he presents his remarkably successful play, "The Concert." This is the comedy that Mr. Belasco arranged with Leo Ditrichstein to adapt from the German, and for which he engaged Mr. Ditrichstein to play the leading part. The result has been a brilliant triumph for the producer as well as for the actor. "The Concert" began this season at the Belasco theater, New York, and Mr. Belasco will send the same New York company here, headed by Leo Ditrichstein. The leading woman will be Isabel Irving.

"The Concert" dramatizes the artistic temperament, and does it in a way that is understandable and intelligent to everyone. The entire production has received the personal attention of Mr. Belasco, which is a guarantee of its excellence. The result is a capital comedy, brilliantly acted and ably staged, and its presentation here will undoubtedly be one of the principal dramatic events of the theatrical season.

"UNCLE TOM'S CABIN"

The La Crosse theater management announced this morning that Kibbie and Martin's big revival of "Uncle Tom's Cabin" will be brought to that popular playhouse in the near future. The announcement will no doubt be hailed with delight for the theatergoers are always anxious to witness a production that is being praised by the press and public. It is said that over fifty people are employed in the production and the scenery magnificent to behold Saturday, May 17, matinee and night.

"THE PRINCE OF PILSEN"

"The Prince of Pilsen," the most popular of American musical comedies, will be presented at the La Crosse theater Wednesday, May 21, with a wealth of scenic and costume equipment and an excellence of individual and chorus impersonation rarely shown in musical comedy performance.

In the principal comedy role, Hans Wagner, a Cincinnati brewer, Mr. "Jess" Dandy, combines a personality that exudes humor with an innate appreciation of comedy, so pointedly expressed by voice, look and action that he evokes almost the extreme limit of merriment. Lottie Kendall, an American girl who after winning a high position in her own land, captured the appreciation and favor of English audiences, will be the flirtatious widow of the cast. Bernard Ferguson, the real prince, and Fred Lyon, the naval lieutenant, are recent valuable additions to the cast. Norma Brown with her twinkling feet, is the French maid Sidonie, while petite Dorothy Delmore will play the bell boy. Dainty Edna Pendleton is the Nellie Wagner, daughter of Hans, and Mary C. Murray has the role of Edith. Campbell Duncan will enact the role of Lord Somerset and Bobby Woolsey that of Francois. The song hits in "The Prince of Pilsen" number at least a score. "The Message of the Violets," "Heidelberg," "The Tale of the Sea Shell," "Pictures in Smoke," and "The Song of the Cities" are household favorites.

To Remove Ink Stains.

When you desire to remove an ink stain from colored gingham or linen, dip the spot in hot tallow. Allow this to cool before washing. The ink will come out with the grease when the dress is laundered, and it will not injure the fabric.

Good Actions Live.

As shrubs which are cut down with the morning dew upon them do for a long time after retain their fragrance, so the good actions of a wise man perfume his mind, and leave a rich scent behind them. So that joy is, as it were, watered with these essences, and owes its flourishing to them.—Plutarch.

BUSINESS EXPANDS IN THE SOUTH END

New Meat Market Building Erected at Twelfth and Mormon Coulee Hand-some Structure

HAMMOCK WORKS ARE GROWING

Power Looms to Be Installed by La Crosse Company to Meet Heavy Trade

The two new buildings that are being erected in the extreme southern part of the city, which will be completed within the next thirty days, will add greatly to the progressive air that this part of the city has taken on the past year.

The Scham Brothers' Wholesale Meat company are erecting a building at Twelfth and Mormon Coulee road for Frank Herlitzki, which will be used for a meat market. Owing to the demand for an up-to-date establishment of this kind at this end of the city, the company has erected the market and will supply it with meats but will not control the store, as the retail dealers of the city refuse to let a wholesaler manage a retail store. The store will be one of the handsomest establishments of its kind in the city.

The La Crosse Hammock Works have recently started the erection of an addition to their factory at Twelfth and Weston streets, which will about double their floor space, and will more than double their output. The company has been in existence for several years, but have recently put representatives throughout in most of the states west of the Mississippi, principally in the north-west and California. They found that their present space was not adequate for a large output of their goods. When the addition is completed the company will install several motor driven machines and looms. When their busy season opens next fall, the company expects to be turning out more hammocks than any factory in the northwest.

The erection of several new residences will be started this summer in this vicinity.

ESCH RESOLUTION MEETS DEFEAT

WASHINGTON, May 10.—About fifty republicans in the house met on Thursday night to discuss an early reorganization of the republican congressional campaign committee, but owing to the opposition, led by Republican Leader Mann, no action was taken.

Representative Esch of Wisconsin sought to urge a resolution to provide for the committee reorganization, but Mr. Mann opposed it, saying that if pressed he would make a point of no quorum.

Representative Mann suggested that there would be plenty of opportunity for conferences when the members returned to Washington in June.

PRAISES WAUPUN IS GIVEN YEAR

MILWAUKEE, May 10.—When Charles B. Miller, who pleaded guilty in municipal court on Friday before Judge Backus on a forgery charge, was sentenced to a year in the house of correction, he remarked: "Well, judge, inmates of the house of correction tell me the food there is not as good as it is at the state penitentiary, and if it is all the same to you I would like to go to the state penitentiary."

"Well, I think I can accommodate you," remarked the judge, and he sentenced Miller to one year in Waupun. Miller pleaded guilty to passing bad checks.

Combination of Languages.

The Hebrews who live in Germany speak the German language, using among themselves a peculiar dialect called "Yiddish," that term being itself a corrupt form of the German word Judisch. Russian Hebrews also use this language, while by a curious chain of historic events Turkish Hebrews speak Spanish. Printed Yiddish shows an interesting combination of languages, the words being essentially German, but printed in Hebrew characters.—Christian Herald.

Didn't Know the Duke.

When, in 1883, Professor Freeman was examining Battle Abbey, he found himself dogged by a person, who, as he thought, somewhat officiously obtruded his offers of assistance. After vainly trying to shake him off, he broke forth with: "I don't want your help. The duke of Cleveland promised that I should not be interfered with by the gardeners." "Exactly so," was the reply; "I hope they have obeyed my orders. I am the duke of Cleveland."

Must Be Done By Hand.

So far no machine has been found to give satisfaction in sewing the covers on baseballs. Hundreds of thousands of balls are used every year, and they are all hand-sewed. A man working his best can not finish more than three dozen a day.

Accounted For.

"Yes," said a grocer to a housewife, "I'll admit that there is considerable water in the butter I sold you, but it just came through the western floods."

The Company Behind the Cross Country

Look up the rating given The Thomas B. Jeffery Company by the great national commercial agencies. You will find it is the highest that can possibly be given to any concern.

Forty years of manufacturing experience and the result of constant striving toward ideals of accuracy constitute the greatest asset of this company today.

The Boston sales and service building, 640 Commonwealth Ave., Boston, Mass., one of nearly five hundred branches and distributing houses maintained by this company and by Cross Country dealers.

Rambler Motor Cars

Fifteen fundamental facts we offer in conclusion. These are the facts that every buyer must consider if he chooses wisely. Study them carefully and consider their meaning.

- 1 The 1913 Cross Country is the product of forty years of manufacturing experience.
- 2 The Jeffery Company has the highest financial rating that it is possible for the commercial agencies to give.
- 3 Capital three million dollars, all paid in, with a large surplus.
- 4 The Company is owned practically in its entirety by one man and is absolutely independent of any alliance with any other concern.
- 5 Every piece of equipment and every particle of real estate owned by this company is paid for in full and never has a bill been allowed to pass discount.
- 6 Ninety-six per cent. of all parts are made in the Jeffery works.
- 7 Twenty-five thousand Rambler cars are on the road.
- 8 The Jeffery organization includes a factory manned by two thousand men, with a sales and service force including nearly five hundred branches and distributing dealers.
- 9 The factory ground area is one hundred and four acres and the floor area twenty-five acres.
- 10 Cross Country parts sell from one-half to two-thirds less than parts of other cars.
- 11 Fifteen employees of this company have been in its employ twenty years and over; fifteen from fifteen to twenty years and nearly all the rest from one to fifteen years.
- 12 The Jeffery Company was the first American company to adopt the demountable wheel, universally used abroad and now being imitated widely in this country.
- 13 The Jeffery service facilities in every part of the United States are under direct company supervision and are unexcelled.
- 14 The Jeffery organization is an organization of young men, who have built up a reputation for fair dealing which entitles them to expect to be in business for many years.
- 15 The Jeffery Company is notably conservative, valuing permanent success beyond temporary profit.

The Jeffery organization produces nothing but the Cross Country car. We cannot, in view of the facts enumerated above, do anything else but build it right.

A beautiful four-color reproduction of the Cross Country, from an oil painting by R. Philip Brinard, is ready for mailing. See the Cross Country by all means, at any Jeffery branch or dealer's display room, but send for the picture anyway.

Mr. Isaacson's son attended the Prairie du Chien high school last year, and a daughter was a student in St. Mary's academy. The family now resides in Madison.

Perils of Cookery.

"Leezie, wumman," the old Highlander complained to his wife at breakfast, "thae eggs are mighty hard-boiled again." "Nae wonder, John, dear," replied his wife, triumphantly, "when the lassie boiled them by the kitchen clock, and forgot it was five meenits slow."—Youth's Companion.

No man is Stronger Than his Stomach

LET the greatest athlete have dyspepsia and his strength will soon fail. One's stamina—forcefulness and strength of mind or muscle depend upon the blood, and the blood in turn, requires a healthy stomach, for the stomach is the laboratory where the food is digested and such elements are taken up—or assimilated—which make blood. In consequence all the organs of the body, such as heart, lungs, liver and kidneys, as well as the nervous system, feel the bad effect if the stomach is deranged.

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery

helps the stomach to digest food properly, starts the liver into new activity, removing the poisons from the blood, and the various organs get rich, red blood, instead of being ill nourished. ## IN THE WORLD OF WOMEN

The Consumers' league of Pennsylvania has started a campaign to secure trustworthy statistics relating to the existence of self-supporting women on a wage of $8 a week. Special account books have been prepared and placed in the hands of reliable, self-supporting women, who will keep accurate figures and accounts which will be turned over to the organization.

The fifteenth annual convention of the International Sunshine society, of which Mrs. Cynthia Westover Alden is president general, will be held in New York, May 14 to 17. The organization has more than 2,000 branches in good standing.

The general society, Daughters of the Revolution, at its last convention adopted resolutions protesting against the removal of the Liberty Bell from Independence hall, in Philadelphia, to the Panama-Pacific exposition at San Francisco in 1915. The state regents will circulate petitions to counteract the petition of the exposition management.

Herman Robinson, commissioner of licenses in New York, in a report on employment agencies, says that the inability of the agencies to meet demand for servants "is not so much because women who are willing to work are scarce, as it is that so many of them are incompetent." He also says that employers do not give the servants sufficient consideration.

As a reward for faithful service, the Misses Kate and Anna Maume have been awarded the entire assets of a business of manufacturing women's apparel under the will of the late Patrick F. McGowan, former president of the board of Aldermen of New York. The Misses Maumes' reward will amount to about $25,000.

The hero of the recent suffrage battle in Pennsylvania, by which the suffrage amendment was put through the senate, is Mrs. Maxwell Chapman, president of the Lackawanna County Equal Franchise league. She corralled the labor union and organized working forces of the county, and though Senator Walter McNichol, the senatorial representative of the district, declared that he would not vote for the amendment as an individual, he was compelled to bow to the petitions of 70,000 of his constituents who demanded his favorable vote. His ballot decided the fate of the measure.

Domestic Hints

(From The Scotch-American)

To prevent cold feet at bedtime it is advised that just before retiring the ankles and feet should be well rubbed with the hand for five to ten minutes. This treatment creates a grateful glow, which is more beneficial, as the discomfort that may otherwise be experienced may act as a direct cause of sleeplessness.

Keep a mangle wringer well oiled, as the labor of working it is then much less. Occasionally it should be oiled with paraffin to cleanse the bearings, but in a general way proper machine oil should be used, as paraffin oil is of no use as a lubricant. In order to work the wringer with the least amount of strain stand in front of the machine and facing it.

An open window is the preventative of many of the ills to which people are subjected, and in winter or summer alike the bedroom window should be kept partly open during the night. Preparations for bed, however, should always be made in a warm room, and no risk of cold should be taken. The use of a dressing room is always to be recommended.

BAD BREAKING OUT ON CHILD'S SCALP

Little White Lumps, Pimples Would Break and Run Matter, Itching and Burning. Hair Came Out in Bunches. Cuticura Soap and Ointment Cured. Also Made Hair Grow.

813 E. Second St., Muncie, Ind. — "My little girl had a bad breaking out on the scalp. It was little white lumps. The pimples would break out as large as a common pinhead all over her head. They would break and run yellow matter. She suffered nearly a year with itching and burning. It was sore and itched all the time. The matter that ran from her head was very thick. I did not comb her hair very often, her head was too sore to comb it, and when I did comb, it came out in bunches. Some nights her head itched so bad she could not sleep. I tried several different soaps and ointments, also patent medicine, but nothing could I get to stop it. I began using Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Ointment this summer after I sent for the free samples. I used them and they did so much good I bought a cake of Cuticura Soap and some Cuticura Ointment. I washed her head with Cuticura Soap and rubbed the Cuticura Ointment in the scalp every two weeks. A week after I had washed her head three times you could not tell she ever had a breaking out on her head. Cuticura Soap and Ointment also made her hair grow beautifully. I cannot say enough for them for they cured my little girl." (Signed) Mrs. Emma Patterson, Dec. 22, 1911.

Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Ointment are sold throughout the world. Liberal sample of each mailed free, with 32-p. Skin Book. Address post-card "Cuticura, Dept. T., Boston."

Joseph Made Ruler of Egypt. Gen. xli:1-45.

Golden Text—God giveth grace to the humble. 1 Pet. v:5.

(1) Verses 1-7—What river is probably here referred to?

(2) What relation did this river have, and have today, upon the fertility of Egypt?

(3) What animals are meant by the word "kine"?

(4) Verse 8—If Pharaoh had been a man of God would his spirit have been troubled by a dream or by any other experience? Why?

(5) Is care, evil foreboding or any kind of anxiety consistent with absolute faith in God? Give your reasons.

(6) Verses 9-13—What part has this chief butler previously taken in this history, and how would you estimate his character?

(7) What sort of man is he who forgets the one from whom he has received vital benefits?

(8) Verse 14—What part does a good personal appearance play in helping men and women get the positions they are seeking and in keeping them afterward?

(9) Verses 15-16—Would it be well or ill for us, and why, if we could get the interpretation of all our dreams?

(10) To whom are we indebted both for our ability and our opportunities?

(11) Take great men as statesmen, poets, musicians, philosophers, orators, prophets and others and state how much of their ability and opportunity came from God and how much is due to themselves.

(12) Verses 17-32—How do you reconcile with the general goodness of God the fact that bad crops, famine, tornadoes, earthquakes and other calamities frequently visit the earth?

(13) God generally finds some amelioration for every calamity. Would you therefore say, and why, that Joseph was raised up by God to prepare for the coming seven years of famine?

(14) How much merit was due to Joseph for being able to interpret this dream? (This is one of the questions which may be answered in writing by members of the club.)

(15) Verses 33-36—Is it the duty of every normal man to save money or make provision for the time when he may not be able to earn any? Why?

(16) Should every man who has a wife or family depending on him insure his life for as much as his income will allow him to carry? Why or why not?

(17) Would you say that Joseph's advice to Pharaoh was divinely inspired, or simply the advice of a level-headed man? Why?

(18) Verses 37-45—Would you say that the spirit of God dwelt in Joseph all the time? Why?

(19) Was Joseph conscious that it was God who showed him all these things, and may every godly man have a similar consciousness?

(20) Did the plan to make Joseph ruler of Egypt originate with Pharaoh or with God? Why?

(21) Is it the duty of every good man to marry and raise a family? Lesson for Sunday, May 18, 1913. Joseph Meets His Brethren. Gen. xlii.

"Here's where my friend and I are going to have a few words over nothing," said the wireless operator as he prepared to manipulate his instrument.

For Sallow, Wrinkled, Freckled, Pimpled Skin

(From Woman's Home Journal.) If you have any cutaneous blemish, don't use paint, powder or anything else to cover it up. Too often this only emphasizes the defect. Be disfigured with ordinary mercerized wax. Applied rightly, the wax will gradually remove freckles, pimples, blackheads, moth-patches, sallowness, red or yellow blotches, or any surface eruptions. The affected cuticle is absorbed, a little each day, until the clear, soft, youthful and beautiful skin beneath is brought wholly to view. Ask the druggist for an ounce of mercerized wax and use this like you use cold cream. Remove in morning with soap and water. Many who have tried this simple and harmless treatment report astonishing results.

If bothered with wrinkles or crow's feet, a wash lotion made by dissolving an ounce of powdered salolite in a half pint wash hazel will prove remarkably effectual.

Beginning of the End

Old Mike, who never drank water enough to warrant the disease, was reduced to such a state of dropsy that a consultation by physicians was held upon his case. They agreed that tapping was necessary. "Oh, Moike, Moike, never let 'im tap yez!" cried his friend Dolan when he heard the news.

"Sure, Jimmy, me b'y, 'twill do me good, an' O'll live long in health."

Dolan shook his head ominously. "No, Moike, no; yez won't. Niver was anythin' tapped in your house that lasted more'n a week."

A Mercenary Lass. William D. Straight, the financier, was discussing the American bankers' recent withdrawal from the Chinese loan.

"I like China," Mr. Straight said. "My regard for China will not let me consider her from a purely selfish and commercial viewpoint. I cannot, in this matter, put myself in the position of the young lady who was asked by her chum:

"Do you think, my dear, that it's better to have loved and lost than never to have loved at all?"

"Why, of course it is," the young lady replied, "provided he lets you keep all his presents."

The Undiscovered Interior

A magazine editor recently returned a story to an aspiring contributor. Immediately the latter wrote an indignant letter to him, saying that before sending her manuscript she had slightly pasted together several of the inner pages. When the story was returned to her it was in its original condition. She had always suspected editors of neglecting their duties; now she was sure of their carelessness, for her own story had not been read. To all this, the much berated man made reply: "Dear Madam—At breakfast, when I find that an egg is bad, I do not have to eat the whole of it to make sure."

Y. W. C. A. Plans Summer Work

The Y. W. C. A. is more and more emphasizing summer work for women apart from that for men. Especially is this so in its student department. The association, with new life since the completion of its national headquarters building and the enlargement of its training school, will have some benefit from the visit of world leaders in attendance at the World Student Federation Conference at Lake Mohonk next month. This benefit will come from visits of these experts from many countries to the conferences for young women planned by the Y. W. C. A. In the same way as the Y. W. C. A. the association districts its summer work and secures delegates from colleges. Most of its principal summer meetings are as follows:

For colleges in the South, Blue Ridge, N. C., June 6 to 16; for the northwest at Geargarr Park, Ore., June 17 to 27; for the Pacific Coast, Moss Beach, Cal., August 1 to 11; for colleges in the East and also for association city workers, Silver Bay, June 20 to 30 and July 1 to 11; for Pennsylvania at Eagles Mere, June 24 to July 3; for the Middle West at Lake Geneva, Wis., August 12 to 21; and for the Rocky Mountain region at Estes Park, Col., August 12 to 21, and August 21 to September 1. Fully eight thousand young women students will attend these summer meetings. The morning hours are devoted to Bible, missions and other religious study. The afternoons are given to recreation.

Religious Instruction Feature of Chautauqua

Features to be made prominent at Chautauqua, the original one on the lake of that name, will be strictly religious instruction, under direction of Prof. Shailer Matthews of Chicago; industrial training, led by Henry Turner Bailey of Massachusetts; and lectures by four recognized leaders. Chautauqua, both the original and others of the name that have grown out of it, stands primarily for Christian education. In pushing this aim it felt last year that it had, in some degree, neglected Christian propaganda itself. So a new staff has been formed to give emphasis to this line. The industrial instruction comes earlier in the season than some other

POEMS

You Ought To Know

Opportunity

By John J. Ingalls.
Master of human destinies am I,
Fame, love and fortune on my foot,
Steps wait,
Cities and fields I walk; I penetrate Deserts and seas remote, and, passing by Hovel, and mart, and palace, soon
Or late
I knock unbidden once at every gate!
If sleeping, wake—if feasting, rise before
I turn away. It is the hour of fate,
And they who follow me reach every state
Mortals desire, and conquer every foe
Save death; but those who doubt or hesitate,
Condemned to failure, penury and
woe,
Seek me in vain and uselessly implore—
I answer not, and I return no more.

WIN A CASH PRIZE

Any reader of this paper who is little clever—and we know there are lots of clever people in LaCrosse—can win a neat cash prize offered by the Minnesota Macaroni Company for an idea for a new trademark. Most all of you have eaten "Minnesota" Macaroni and "Minnesota" Spaghetti and you know what delicious foods they are—how nicely they cook up, and how they NEVER get soggy and spongy like many other brands.

The reason "Minnesota" Macaroni and Spaghetti are always so nice and tender is because they are made from the REAL NORTHERN DURUM wheat—the highest priced wheat there is.

Now here is the proposition in regard to those prizes; the Minnesota Macaroni Company want a new trademark—a design, name, word or sentence, to distinguish their products. The design or wordmark must have some connection with Minnesota or with macaroni and should be simple so that it can be printed in a small space and be easily remembered. And it must be something that is not being used anywhere else.

You don't have to draw the trademark, unless you wish. Just state WHAT YOUR IDEA IS, for instance like this: "I suggest a picture of an Indian girl holding a sheaf of wheat," or "I suggest the word 'Minnesota' surrounded by wheat stalks," etc. Just try a minute and you can think of lots of ideas. The prizes are as follows: For the best idea, $15.00 in cash. For the second best, $10.00 in cash. For the third best, $5.00 in cash. For the next ten best, $1.00 each. Also to each of the next twenty-five will send a package of "Minnesota" Macaron

FOREIGN MARKETS

New York Stocks
NEW YORK, May 10.—The stock market opened dull and lower. 11 a. m.—The market remained dull during the first hour. Stocks sagged under a small volume of sales as there was complete absence of any support. Southern Pacific opened unchanged from yesterday and Union Pacific was fairly firm. Continued pressure of New York Central caused that issue to break through 99 for the first time. The stock market closed dull.

Chicago Grain Review

CHICAGO, May 10.—A holiday at Liverpool left the local market to itself today and under these conditions wheat was firm at the outset and advanced 1/4c for each month during the session. The belief that the bearish crop figures will not hold good caused confidence on the part of the buying trade.

Light run of corn from the country gave the corn pit a strong undertone today and options rose. May went up 1/4c over the day's opening when the market closed.

Offerings were small in the oats pit and there was enough of a buying demand to cause a slight bulge. May went up 1/4c during the morning and July 1/4c.

Provisions opened easier but closed about firm on the day's opening prices.

U. S. LEAGUE OPENS

NEW YORK, May 10.—With only one hope—that the sun will hit the diamond a little stronger and put an upshoot on the temperature—the eight teams of the United States league were ready for the opening this morning. Brooklyn in Washington, New York in Newark, Philadelphia in Reading and Baltimore in Lynchburg, is the card today.

Dobkins.

"What kind of a fellow is Dobkins?" "He can tell you how to adopt a national system of currency that would pay off the national debt, but he can't raise the price of his grocery bill."

Watching The Scoreboard

The Cub-Giant fight of years' standing will be staged today with Managers Evers hoping to take up the work where his old team mate Tinker left off yesterday.

Brooklyn takes on the Reds after advancing to second place over the Cubs. If he had the Dodgers to play every day President Murphy might claim only a 17 game margin.

The Cardinals should slip into Boston today through a back gate. After taking four straight from Pittsburgh the Braves will try to swallow Huggins' crew whole.

The Phillies are still in the lead, thanks to the home run swat delivered by Luderus.

By defeating Detroit again the Yankees have won as many games in the west as they did in three weeks in the east.

The Browns took a liking to Houck's offerings right at the start and scored enough runs in the first inning to clinch the game against the Athletics.

Buck O'Brien had the Naps guessing and thirteen hits behind him won for Boston.

Gallia was so wild that the White Sox scored three runs in two innings without getting a hit.

M'GOVERN NAMES FARMING BOARD

MADISON, Wis., May 10.—(Special.)—Governor McGovern has made the following appointments to the state board of agriculture: Dr. Gustave Kietzsch, Milwaukee, to succeed William MacLaren as member at large; Alonzo H. Wilkinson, Bayfield; Thomas Saxe, member of Saxe Bros., theatrical firm, Milwaukee; Charles L. Hill, Rosendale (re-appointed); and Charles H. Everett, Racine (re-appointed).

JOHNSON TO PITCH

CHICAGO, May 10.—Walter Johnson was slated to take the mound this afternoon for the Senators in an effort to add nine more innings to his record of consecutive pitching without permitting a run. The White Sox were eager to start against Johnson and his record but Manager Callahan was undecided as to his pitching choice.

BOSSHARD PROPOSES BILL

MADISON, Wis., May 10.—In the senate Thursday night Senator Otto Bosshard of La Crosse introduced a duplicate of the Ekern bill placing the state firemarshal department under the state insurance commissioner. The Ekern bill was killed by the assembly last week and refused reconsideration in that house on Wednesday.

GANDIL'S BIG HELP TO THE SENATORS

Chick Gandil.

Chick Gandil, the last year's recruit from the Montreal team, is filling the long-felt want of the Washington American league baseball team as a first baseman. Gandil is one of the mainstays of the team, which he often pulls out of a hole by his batting ability.

SHOOTS THREE AND KILLS SELF

DIXON, Mont., May 10.—H. A. Wellington, a homesteader near here, was shot dead Thursday night in his tracks by H. A. Stansky, who arrived from the east.

Stansky also shot and seriously wounded a boy named Cook, who rushed to Wellington's assistance, and then entered the Wellington home, encountering Mrs. Wellington. He fired three bullets into her body, probably fatally wounding her. With the remaining cartridge Stansky sent a bullet into his own brain, dying instantly.

Not Unwilling.

Wife (pouting).—"You never kiss me good-by any more." Husband.—Well, I can assure you, my dear, it isn't because I don't want to."—Smart Set.

CHICAGO, May 10.—Jim Scott held the Nationals to six scattered hits yesterday and won 6 to 1. Four-nier, who got into the game in the first inning when Borton was hurt, practically decided the game in the third by tripling to the right field fence with two men on bases. Score: R H E

THE LAND OF Opportunity for La Crosse County people is not away off under the Rainbow, but closer at home, in Northern Wisconsin. The profit in farming is largely in the increase of value of the farm. You buy when cheap and you hold till it becomes valuable. Lands are cheap in Oneida County, but are steadily increasing in price. At the same time these lands are as fertile as the best La Crosse County lands. There is no trouble to prove it. This argument is not used to crowd over you but to induce you to buy some of our lands. The fare to Rhineland is about $4.25 each way. Why not slip up here and see what we have to offer. Continued pressure of New York Central caused that issue to break through 99 for the first time.

The stock market closed dull.

Chicago Grain Review—CHICAGO, May 10.—A holiday at Liverpool left the local market to itself today and under these conditions wheat was firm at the outset and advanced 1/4c for each month during the session. The belief that the bullish crop figures will not hold good caused confidence on the part of the buying trade.

Light run of corn from the country gave the corn pit a strong undertone today and options rose. May was up 3/4c over the day's opening when the market closed.

U. S. LEAGUE OPENS

NEW YORK, May 10.—With only one hope—that the sun will hit the diamond a little stronger and put an upshoot on the temperature—the eight teams of the United States league were ready for the opening this morning. Brooklyn in Washington, New York in Newark, Philadelphia in Reading and Baltimore in Lynchburg, is the card today.

Dobkins.

"What kind of a fellow is Dobkins?" "He can tell you how to adopt a national system of currency that would pay off the national debt, but he can't raise the price of his grocery bill."

Watching The Scoreboard

The Cub-Giant fight of years' standing will be staged today with Managers Evers hoping to take up the work where his old team mate Tinker left off yesterday.

Brooklyn takes on the Reds after advancing to second place over the Cubs. If he had the Dodgers to play every day President Murphy might claim only a 17 game margin.

The Cardinals should slip into Boston today through a back gate. After taking four straight from Pittsburgh the Braves will try to swallow Huggins' crew whole.

The Phillies are still in the lead, thanks to the home run swat delivered by Luderus.

By defeating Detroit again the Yankees have won as many games in the west as they did in three weeks in the east.

The Browns took a liking to Houck's offerings right at the start and scored enough runs in the first inning to clinch the game against the Athletics.

Buck O'Brien had the Naps guessing and thirteen hits behind him won for Boston.

Gallia was so wild that the White Sox scored three runs in two innings without getting a hit.

MADISON, Wis., May 10.—(Special.)—Governor McGovern has made the following appointments to the state board of agriculture: Dr. Gustave Klettsch, Milwaukee, to succeed William MacLaren as member at large; Alonzo H. Wilkinson, Bayfield; Thomas Saxe, member of Saxe Bros., theatrical firm, Milwaukee; Charles L. Hill, Rosendale (re-appointed), and Charles H. Everett, Racine (re-appointed).

JOHNSON TO PITCH

CHICAGO, May 10.—Walter Johnson was slated to take the mound this afternoon for the Senators in an effort to add nine more innings to his record of consecutive pitching without permitting a run. The White Sox were eager to start against Johnson and his record but Manager Callahan was undecided as to his pitching choice.

BOSSHARD PROPOSES BILL

MADISON, Wis., May 10.—In the senate Thursday night Senator Otto Bosshard of La Crosse introduced a duplicate of the Ekern bill placing the state firemarshal department under the state insurance commissioner. The Ekern bill was killed by the assembly last week and refused reconsideration in that house on Wednesday.

GANDIL'S BIG HELP TO THE SENATORS

Chick Gandil.

Chick Gandil, the last year's recruit from the Montreal team, is filling the long-felt want of the Washington American league baseball team as a first baseman. Gandil is one of the mainstays of the team, which he often pulls out of a hole by his batting ability.

SHOOTS THREE AND KILLS SELF

DIXON, Mont., May 10.—H. A. Wellington, a homesteader near here, was shot dead Thursday night in his tracks by H. A. Stansky, who arrived from the east.

Stansky also shot and seriously wounded a boy named Cook, who rushed to Wellington's assistance, and then entered the Wellington home, encountering Mrs. Wellington. He fired three bullets into her body, probably fatally wounding her. With the remaining cartridge Stansky sent a bullet into his own brain, dying instantly.
